

Counter Measure To Bombs

Committee Reports Atomic Bombs May Be Exploded Far Short of Objectives

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(P)—The House Navy committee reported today "indications that an effective counter measure to atomic bombs has been developed."

"Knowledge of electronics," the committee said, "promises ability to detonate atomic bombs at great distances by radio."

The report, based on testimony of high naval officers, did not explain the development beyond saying atomic bombs could be exploded "far short of their objective."

The house committee report was issued as Secretary of Commerce Wallace told the senate military-commerce committee that the United States might stack up more atomic bombs than other nations and still be the most vulnerable of all.

"This is essentially an offensive weapon," Wallace testified.

In a formal report on legislation dealing with the size of the post-war Navy, the house naval committee said:

Always A Counter Measure

"There can be no question that the atomic bomb is the most destructive force yet devised by man. But history shows that the science of warfare has always developed an effective counter measure for every new instrument of destruction."

"There are indications that an effective counter measure to atomic bomb has been developed to such an extent that they can be exploded far short of their objective without the necessity of locating their position. Knowledge of electronics promises ability to detonate atomic bombs at great distances by radio. Such interceptive defense can be effected at the greatest distance from our shores by the navy."

Wallace explained that the United States might be loathe to use the bombs because of its traditional non-belligerent attitude. Other nations might not, he said.

Emphasis On Science

"We might build up a stock that would destroy all the cities of another nation, perhaps the world," he said, "but some other country with one-third our stock could destroy our cities. In this field (atomic destruction), it is one world or no world."

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) asked why the Russians appeared to be making such progress in science under government direction whereas there seems to be some feeling here that government aid would stifle advancement.

Wallace replied that in Soviet Asia, scientific regulation "is not nearly so strictly as people think."

Generally in Soviet Asia, Wallace declared, "I was utterly amazed at the extraordinary emphasis placed on science even in the lowest grades of school x x x In the remotest corners of the country."

In discussing atomic bombs, Wallace said he was in accord with President Truman's statement that "the hope of civilization lies in arrangements looking, if possible, to the renunciation of the use and development of the atomic bomb."

PTA Reaches All Time High

The membership of the Smith-Cotton high school Parent-Teacher Association reached an all time high today at the end of the drive with a total of 903 members. The half holiday to the class having the largest percentage of enrollment goes to the sophomore class.

The students of the school, who were told that if the membership reached the goal of one thousand, the Parent-Teacher Association would entertain the entire school at an orchestra dance, have asked for a two days extension of time in an effort to reach that goal.

Kenneth Hunt, Smith-Cotton student, was chairman of the drive. Dorothy Knerl, was assigned by the student council to represent the council on the P. T. A. board. This is the first time that a student of the school has been a representative on the board.

Miss Nola Lee Wright, in the office of the high school, assisted in the drive.

Still Alarm

The west Sedalia fire company at noon today was called to the Gold Lumber Co., on East Main street, where some dry grass had caught fire. No damage resulted. It was a still alarm.

Hanley and Robinson Again Head Bond Drive

C. L. Hanley, cashier Third National bank, and Ben P. Robinson will serve as War Finance Committee chairman and co-chairman respectively of Pettis county for the Victory Loan, according to an announcement today by Edwin C. Houx, chairman of Group 10 of the War Finance Committee.

Picketing Another Movie Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11.—(P)—A second movie studio, Universal, was mass picketed today by several hundred strikers at the same time that a predicted colossal show of striker strength failed to materialize at the Warner studio.

Pickets began gathering early today at Universal, which is about two miles from Warners, and at 8 a. m. an unofficial nose count put the number at 500.

Both Parties Demand Slash In Expenses

Purpose is to Eventually Reduce Taxes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(P)—A $5,350,000,000 tax cut for individuals and business in 1946 was approved overwhelmingly by the house today.

The bill, first tax cutting measure to pass the house since 1929, was sent to the senate for action there.

House action came amid joint demands by Democrats and Republicans for slashing in federal spending.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(P)—House Democrats and Republicans joined today in demanding a slashing in federal expenditures as the chamber began consideration of a $5,350,000,000 tax reduction bill.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the tax-framing ways and means committee, told his colleagues the budget must be balanced and payments must be made on the huge national debt.

"To make taxes bearable it is important that all non-essential federal spending be eliminated," he declared.

The house Republican leader, Martin of Massachusetts, "served notice" that his party will fight "with unflinching determination to reduce the costs of this government and, by so doing, eventually reduce the burden of taxes."

The house took up the measure on a take it or leave it basis as proposed by the ways and means committee.

Convening two hours earlier than usual, the chamber adopted procedure designed to speed the first peacetime tax reduction to passage by nightfall. Under the arrangement, no changes could be made from the floor without consent of the ways and means committee which drafted the legislation.

Senate Must Approve

The measure, which also must be approved by the senate, would be this beginning January 1:

1. Guarantee every individual income taxpayer a reduction of at least 10 per cent. Total cuts for individuals would amount to $2,627,000,000.

2. Sweep 12,000,000 low income persons off income tax rolls completely. When the war ended there were approximately 50,000,000 individual taxpayers.

3. Lower corporation tax burdens $1,888,000,000 by trimming the effective rate of the war-imposed excess profits tax from 85 to 60 per cent; reducing the combined corporation normal and surtax from 40 per cent to 36; and repealing next July 1 the declared value capital stocks tax. The bill calls for repeal of the excess profits tax Jan. 1, 1947.

4. Cut back next July 1 the high wartime excise levies on such things as liquor, furs, jewelry, luggage and cosmetics, at a saving of $535,000,000 to consumers in the last half of 1946. Some $160,000,000 in taxes on floor stocks under excises also would be refunded to business.

5. Repeal the $5 automobile use tax, next July 1, relieving the burden on automobile owners by $140,000,000.

Chinese Agree Basically

By Clyde Farnsworth

CHUNGKING, Oct. 11.—(P)—Chinese Nationalists and Communists, after decades of bloodshed and five weeks of continuous conferences, have agreed upon basic principles of a political peace and will announce the news officially in a joint communique tomorrow.

Mao Tze-Tung, leader of powerful Communist forces around Yenan in Shensi province, told correspondents "the outlook is optimistic" as he boarded a plane today for his capital to report on the accord.

Mao conceded that some difficulties remained, but said these should be overcome and his visit should help solve China's difficulties.

Schwollenbach himself tried to get a peaceful settlement in the oil dispute — the workers wanted a 30 per cent increase — by calling the union and the companies into conference.

Schwollenbach got nowhere. He finally had to ask the president to step in and seize the strike-bound oil plants to keep production going till some settlement was worked out.

Some government economists are talking this way, but certainly not officially:

If the government did permit some price increases — provided they did not mean more than average increase of 2 or 2½ per cent in living costs — business might be willing to meet labor's wage demands, or some of them.

(These economists are not talking about allowing wage increase of only 2 or 2½ per cent. They're talking about wage increase of perhaps 15 per cent — with some rise in prices — would not result in an overhead rise of more than 2 or 2½ per cent in living costs.)

This still is unofficial talk.

Policy on Wages and Prices; But None on Wage Disputes

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(P)—Because it has no policy for settling wage disputes, the government is trying to do the job by patch-work.

It does have a policy on wages and prices. The present disputes stem directly from conflict with that policy.

This is the wage-price policy. A boss can raise wages if it doesn't mean an increase in the price of the goods made by his workers.

President Truman laid down that rule right after the Japanese surrender. He wants prices kept down to keep living costs down.

Thus a boss employing just a few workers may be able to raise them without needing to raise prices on the goods he sells.

But it's different with a firm employing thousands of workers if all of them, through their union, demand a large pay hike.

In such a case a firm might feel it had to raise prices if it gave a blanket wage boost.

Cuts to the Heart

That cuts to the heart of the conflict.

1. Workers want more pay. They've lost their wartime overtime pay. May have to take poorer-paying jobs. So their take-home pay is less. Yet this happens to them while living costs are high — and stay high.

2. Firms might be willing to grant pay increases if they could also raise their prices although this certainly — if practiced widely — would mean an increase in living costs.

While all this pressure builds up, the government is scrapping the war labor board, the most powerful instrument it ever had for settling labor disputes. It's still in existence but is slowly folding up.

Members of the board — three from industry, three from labor and three representing the public — think the board should die and for this reason:

The board was a wartime agency. A federal court, which might have backed up board decisions in wartime, might think now the board had no authority.

Last week — with strikes increasing everywhere — Secretary of Labor Schwollenbach told reporters he was thinking of trying to get the war labor board to take on a test case or two. Members of the board didn't like the idea.

Thinking Out Loud

The next day Schwollenbach's publicity men told the same newspapermen they had read too much into Schwollenbach's remarks, that in talking to them he was sort of thinking out loud.

Schwollenbach himself tried to get a peaceful settlement in the oil dispute — the workers wanted a 30 per cent increase — by calling the union and the companies into conference.

Schwollenbach got nowhere. He finally had to ask the president to step in and seize the strike-bound oil plants to keep production going till some settlement was worked out.

Some government economists are talking this way, but certainly not officially:

If the government did permit some price increases — provided they did not mean more than average increase of 2 or 2½ per cent in living costs — business might be willing to meet labor's wage demands, or some of them.

Typhoon Hits Okinawa, 5 Die Score Wounded

90,000 Soldiers Have Been Left Without Quarters

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(P)—John Adams, CBS correspondent, said in a broadcast from Manila today that 90,000 soldiers had been left without quarters, five killed and a score wounded in the typhoon which struck Okinawa island on Tuesday.

Several correspondents on the first plane to take off from Okinawa since the storm reported "damage so great that, had it come a month earlier, it could well have changed the entire pattern of our occupation. Had invasion of Japan been necessary, it might have been a major military disaster."

"The southern part of the island took the worst beating, with nearly all army and navy installations destroyed," Adams quoted the correspondents as saying.

"The wind mounted to 120 miles per hour when the wind gauge went out. Sheet metal roofs, tent floors and debris went sailing through the air, while down on Naha airstrip, all but two planes were damaged, some flipped on their backs, others with wings or tail fins or controls blown away."

No Details

"No details were available on damage to naval installations, but as the plane circled the island this morning, the correspondents could see many small craft beached helter-skelter on the shore, and fears were expressed that naval casualties may run into several hundreds."

"Also hard hit were some 500 army nurses who were in a transient camp en route to Japan. Although they suffered no casualties, they lost their tents and many personal belongings, and were forced to ride out the worst of the storm crouching in scores of ill-smelling native tombs, ancient stone sepulchres that dot the hillsides of the island."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—(P)—A broadcast from Tokyo by NBC correspondent Guthrie Janssen said today the Japanese home ministry reported a typhoon on Tuesday killed 69 persons, destroyed 125 houses and washed out 81 bridges in central and southern parts of the main home island of Honshu.

The automobile, as an instrument of destruction of life and property, was declared to be war's greatest competitor by P. F. Drury, St. Louis, director of safety education and traffic engineering for the Automobile Club of Missouri, speaking before the Sedalia Kiwanis club at its meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

The speaker appealed for cooperation of such organizations as Kiwanis and individuals in becoming safety conscious and to stimulate a demand of society to solve the problem of controlling automobile fatalities.

He warned of the sudden upswing in accidents since the lifting of gasoline rationing, the danger of deteriorated tires and mechanical equipment during the war-time restrictions. He contrasted the public's inadequate comprehension of the dangers inherent in operation of the automotive invention to what may be a similar attitude towards controlling the newly discovered atomic energy.

Safety Committee

Mr. Drury announced the appointment of a Sedalia Traffic Safety committee as follows: City Attorney William M. Igenfritz, chairman; Mayor A. H. Wilks, Police Desk Sergeant George R. Maness; Auto Club Manager, Ray Lippard, and Chief of Police Anson Finnell.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. Lippard. The program was in charge of Dan Robertson.

Guests were: George Wilkerson and Hugo Sparr with Paul Hedderich; J. L. Mahl, State Supervisor AAA, St. Louis and Warner T. Bailey, AAA district manager, Booneville, with W. H. Roberts; Herbert Reynolds with I. C. Evans; W. Glasbrenner, St. Joseph and C. A. Porter, St. Joseph, with Robert Henderson; George Maness and D. S. Lamm with Mayor A. H. Wilks; Wallace R. Hunt with his father, Ray Hunt; Deputy Sheriff Adolph Glenn with Leo J. Harned; State Trooper Pete Stohr with Ed Mullahey.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Sterling Nichols, route 2, Sedalia; August H. Lange, Sweet Springs; Joseph F. Carter, route 4, Sedalia, admitted for surgery.

George and son, 912 West Tenth street; Mrs. Sidney Morton, Knob Noster; Mrs. L. A. Wilkens and son, route 1 and Thomas J. Raines, Nelson, dismissed.

Recorder's Bill Vetoed

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 11.—(P)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly vetoed today a bill which sought to give county recorders extra compensation for recording servicemen's honorable discharges. He said the measure was unconstitutional and conflicted with at least five other laws.

Gideons Present Chaplain Carlson

Chaplain (Captain) Alvin O. Carlson, United States Army, who served overseas with the Third Army, will speak at the Fifth Street Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock tonight, under the sponsorship of the Sedalia Gideon Society.

Funds Raised in Unique Way for Celebration Stolen

KENOSHA, Wis., Oct. 11.—(P)—For four months, Kenosha GI's and sailors home on leave had tacked $1 bills on the ceiling at a local tavern as their contributions toward a fund to finance a homecoming celebration, come the day when they donned civies.

Up to yesterday 135 dollar bills had been tacked up, each bearing the name, rank and outfit of the donor.

Yesterday the porter found a broken pane of glass in the front door. He glanced at the ceiling. Instead of 135 dollar bills there were but nine, which were tacked too well for removal.

$800,000,000 UNRRA Fund Almost Spent

Asking Congress to Appropriate $550,000,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—(P)—Assistant Secretary of State William L. Clayton today urged Congress to appropriate promptly the remaining $550,000,000 of the original $1,350,000,000 authorized for UNRRA.

The $800,000,000 already appropriated is virtually exhausted and the remaining sum is needed quickly to avoid "disastrous interruption" of supplies to millions of war victims, Clayton said.

He appeared before the deficiency subcommittee of the House Appropriations committee, which is considering the appropriation for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Clayton said UNRRA had delivered to war-torn areas "very large quantities of supplies, which have meant the difference between acute distress and a semblance of decent living."

The administration, he said, soon will ask Congress to authorize an additional U. S. contribution matching the original $1,350,000,000, but asserted:

Delay Is Serious

"We can not wait until that time, however, to request the appropriation of the remaining $550,000,000."

"A delay of even a few weeks will be extremely serious, since UNRRA must move at once to liberated lands who are unable to provide relief and rehabilitation for themselves."

Deliveries of most major items of relief supplies from the United States would cease entirely in December and January unless the additional funds are made available, Clayton reported.

This would mean, he said, that relief would "practically come to an end in a crucial period of the winter."

He told the committee UNRRA intended to use as much of the appropriations as possible to obtain surplus U. S. property both overseas and at home.

Wendell Mason On SS Sedalia

Pvt. Wendell Mason told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Mason, 500 West Morgan street, in a telephone call from Boston, Mass., Tuesday night that he had just arrived from overseas on the SS Sedalia Victory and it seemed like home when he stepped on board that ship.

Pvt. Mason has been in service three years and has served two years in the European theatre of operations. He was in England, France, Germany, Luxembourg and Belgium and has two campaigns stars.

His wife and four year old son, William Luther, are residing in New York while Pvt. Mason is in service.

Col. Juan Peron Remains Strong

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 11.—(P)—Gen. Eduardo Avalos, commander of the powerful Campo de Mayo garrison, took over the Argentine war ministry today as the power behind the military government, but there were indications that Col. Juan Peron, though divested of his cabinet status, remained a strong factor in the confused political situation.

Only a few hours after the government had accepted Peron's resignation as vice president, war minister and minister of labor and social welfare, he delivered a speech last night to an enthusiastic crowd in which he pledged the remainder of his life "to the cause of the working man."

Cries of "Our President!" came from the cheering throng which gathered outside the secretariat of labor to hear the "Iron Man's" speech, which was nationally broadcast.

Less Corn Than Last Year

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 11.—(P)—Production of only 117,477,000 bushels of corn in Missouri, as compared with 162,000,000 harvested last year, was forecast in the federal-state cooperative crop report for October.

Some improvement in the corn crop since last month was reported. Because of late planting, summer drought and fall rains, the crop will be relatively small and of poor quality, the report said.

The Oct. 8 frost may have some effect on the soybean yield, the report said, forecasting production at 10,770,000 bushels, up from 10,606,000 last year.

Columbia Banker Dies

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 11.—(P)—H. H. Banks, 85, president of the Columbia Savings bank here since 1910 and an officer of the bank since its founding in 1886, died at his home here last night. He is survived by his wife and three children. Funeral services will be held at the home here at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Sweeping Reforms Ordered

MacArthur Tells Premier to Take Prompt and Vigorous Action for People

TOKYO, Oct. 11.—(P)—Gen. MacArthur gave orders for sweeping social and political reforms in Japan today and announced plans for sending home 1,250,000 U. S. soldiers from the Pacific theater in the next six months.

MacArthur met Premier Shidehara for an hour late today, telling the new Japanese government head that the five major reforms needed in Japan would necessitate revision of the constitution and that:

"I expect you to institute them as rapidly as they can be assimilated."

MacArthur likewise put it squarely up to Shidehara to take prompt and "vigorous" action to see that the Japanese people are clothed, fed and housed during the coming winter.

The meeting at MacArthur's headquarters and initiated by Shidehara shortly after he had completed his cabinet and called on the emperor, came shortly after the Allied supreme commander had directed the Japanese government to report within 90 days all foreign exchange assets, including private holdings and foreign properties of the imperial household.

Revoked Air Service

Allied headquarters also announced revocation of permission to the Japanese to operate

Retire at Birth

By Peter Edson
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—With all this talk flying around about $25 for 26 weeks of no work, 52 hours' pay for 40 hours' work, tax cuts, rollbacks, carryovers, refunds and heaven knows what other new economic theories, you still haven't heard anything unless you know about the "Morrow Plan."

Its slogan is "Retire at Birth." Its sub-slogan is "Work for Luxury."
The Morrow plan was first cooked up as a gag, back at the end of the 1930's when the "Ham and Eggs" and "Thirty Dollars Every Thursday" movements were sweeping the country. In those days when Father Coughlin, Doc Townsend, Gerald L. K. Smith or any other theorist with a cure for the depression could get an audience, a couple of Columbus, Ohio, newspapermen woke up to the fact that unless something drastic was done pretty quickly the Ham and Eggs stood a good chance of carrying the state in the 1940 elections.

It Can't Compete With Today's Ideas
Since nobody wanted to listen to reason, these newspapermen decided the best way to lick the crack-brained theories was to reduce them to absurdity and laugh them to death. So they dreamed up the plan to end all plans. They called it the Morrow Plan because the man who thought it up was named Walt Morrow. Since those carefree days, this Morrow has become a conservative business representative in Washington and he says today that the Morrow plan of half a dozen years ago couldn't begin to compete with some of the economic theories being concocted today to cure postwar depression ills.

First step in the dizzy conception of the original Morrow plan was to incorporate the United States of America and run it as one big business, with all the citizens being entitled to share in the profits. Every citizen, at birth, automatically would become a bond-holder and would be issued free, $50,000 worth of non-transferable bonds which would be canceled at death. During life, however, the income from these bonds, at a conservative 5 per cent interest would yield $2,500 income a year.

This interest money would be paid in a kind of scrip which would be good to purchase the necessities of life—food, rent, clothing and doctor bills—but nothing more. If you were content to live off the $2,500 without luxuries, you could do it. Hence the slogan, "Retire at Birth."

Ambitious people, the folks who wanted the luxuries of life, still would be permitted to work for them in the old fashioned way if they chose to go to that trouble.

He Found Supporters
After Morrow thought up this dizzy scheme he decided to try it out. His associate was Parker La-Moore, who is now about to be discharged from the army as a lieutenant colonel.

Morrow would find a crowd and go into his act. When he had finished explaining his plan he would ask, "How does it sound to you?"

And then, to the absolute amazement of both Morrow and La-Moore, instead of saying, "You're crazy," their listeners would invariably say, "It sounds all right!"

That cured Morrow and La-Moore of trying to out-screwball the screwballs. The Morrow plan was allowed to die. It is revived here now only to help explain why some of the slogans now being carried on placards in parades and picket lines have so many willing followers.

The Daily Washington

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—The secret service has a harder time keeping pace with Harry Truman than any other president in years—especially when he's back in his home stamping grounds. Truman loves to mingle with friends, darts here and there in crowds, can't seem to get used to the fact that he's president. . . . For 12 years S. S. men got into the habit of standing around Roosevelt. He moved slowly and infrequently. They did the same. Now they have to jump. . . . Old friends of Truman's sometimes resent secret service men getting in front of him when they approach. Two children who knew him started to greet the president in front of the Truman home some time ago, but the S. S. men brusquely planted themselves in their path. . . . People in Independence, Mo., appreciate the way Mrs. Truman, daughter Margaret and the president himself have been homefolks with them, but they don't like the secret service.

All summer, newsmen have been trying to get photographs of the inside of the summer White House—without success. They have begged and implored Mrs. Truman to let them have some informal shots of herself inside the old family home. But Mrs. T. has been adamant. On one occasion, the president obligingly agreed to pose on the lawn with the members of his family. He and Margaret arrived and waited for Mrs. Truman. She didn't come. Finally the president went inside the house to get her. In a few minutes he came out without his wife. . . . "We'll go ahead with the pictures now," he said quietly. . . . There was no further comment. Obviously Mrs. Truman had refused to budge.

Press Shy Mrs. Truman
Friends say that one reason for Mrs. Truman's press-shyness is an attempt to be the opposite of Mrs. Roosevelt. This is not because Mrs. T. is critical of Mrs. Roosevelt, but rather because she never was in the public eye, has spent all her life as a housewife and believes in continuing to do the same.

Mrs. Truman feels that personal appearances are not down her alley and that she should stick to what she does naturally. . . . Another factor may be that the summer White House belongs to Mrs. Truman's mother, Mrs. D. W. Wallace, and Mrs. Wallace is quite a dominant force in the Truman family. . . . Mrs. Wallace believes that a home is a home. It is not a place to be photographed on the inside, it is a place to live in.

Mrs. Wallace, now in her eighties, has decided ideas on a lot of things, at one time including her son-in-law. Everybody in Independence knows that Harry Truman courted Bess Wallace for a long time and that the Wallace family didn't approve of him. They thought he would never amount to much. The Wallaces were elders in the Presbyterian church and Harry was a Baptist. They were among the most solid citizens of Independence, and Harry had a very haphazard business career. . . . So it was not until Harry came back from World War I at the age of 35 that the Wallace family consented to have their daughter, then about 33, marry the man who later became president.

Battle of the Press
Harry Truman's hospitality nearly precipitated a newspaper civil war when he visited Independence last month. Mayor Roger T. Sernon gave his usual stag party of old friends for the president, and Truman invited two newspapermen, Merriam Smith of the United Press and Ernest Vaccaro of the Associated Press. They, together with Bob Nixon of the International News Service (but who did not take the Independence trip) have travelled with Truman for about 20,000 miles, so he invited them to come to the party as off-the-record guests. . . . Other newsmen were not invited. When Smith and Vaccaro returned, their colleagues asked where they had been. "Out with some girls," they replied, trying to protect Truman. . . . Later, when the uninvited newsmen discovered where the AP and UP correspondents actually were, they nearly disrupted a party given by Editor Roy Roberts of the Kansas City Star.

Army vs. Navy
Hugh Delacy, scrappy freshman representative from Seattle, asked the 864 question at a recent session of the naval affairs committee.

General Hildring of the U. S. army is preparing appeals to congress to appropriate several hundred million dollars to feed Germans this winter. However, General Hildring has asked for no appropriations to feed the starving Dutch, Czechs, Poles, Belgians, French and Norwegians who face the most difficult winter in history because these same Germans destroyed their countries. Henry Morgenthau's new book published this week reveals for the first time startling new facts regarding our treatment of Germany. It is called "Germany is our problem," and after reading the book you are convinced that it is.

CIO-Maritime Battle
A keen scrap raged behind the closed doors of the senate commerce committee before that committee finally voted 10-7 to reject the first federal job appointment sent up by President Truman. Subject of the debate was former Congressman Ray McKeough of Chicago, named by the president as a member of the maritime commission.

Republican Senator Owen Brewster of Maine led the fight against McKeough's appointment, on the grounds that naming a CIO man to the commission would appear to be favoring the CIO over the AFL. McKeough was Illinois director of the CIO political action committee during the last election and was bitterly opposed in pub-

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Rh Blood Types Offer Rare Problem

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D.

Written for NEA Service
K. Landsteiner and A. S. Wiener in 1940 discovered that, in addition to the four main blood types 85 per cent of us have Rh blood and 15 per cent do not. Even though their bloods match in other regards, mixtures of these two types may cause difficulty when repeated transfusions are given, and may cause disturbances in the infant in certain pregnancies.

Dr. O'Brien

If those who do not have Rh blood receive a transfusion of Rh blood, nothing happens the first time. If further transfusions are given, reaction may develop because the individual has become sensitive to this foreign blood as the result of the first transfusion.

Unborn babies may develop this reaction if the father has Rh blood and the mother does not, as the baby is more apt to resemble the father and have Rh blood. The presence in the mother's body of blood foreign to hers may make her sensitive to it. This reaction develops slowly and nothing happens with the first baby, but in subsequent pregnancies the mother's blood may react against her child's blood and cause its death. Difficulty May Develop

If born alive, the infant may have jaundice, anemia, enlarged liver and spleen, and swelling of the body (erythroblastosis). Sometimes the child develops the difficulty after birth, but the cause is the same.

Repeated transfusions are used to overcome the blood difficulty, with the tendency today to use Rh positive blood to avoid permanent liver and brain damage. The mother's blood is never used because of its known harmful effect. Many infants recover after transfusions and most hospitals are equipped to handle this problem.

Indications of Disease
The Rh disease is suspected when transfusion reactions occur in spite of perfect matching, and when women give birth to a normal child followed by stillbirths, or anemic jaundiced infants.

Ideally, every patient should receive the same kind of Rh blood as his own when transfusions are given. First transfusions in men are unimportant as far as this precaution is concerned. Women in the child-bearing age should receive this extra consideration to prevent possible future damage to their children. All pregnant women who have had difficulty with previous births should be tested.

Enlistments in Army Now Open

The U. S. Army recruiting office on the second floor of the Post Office building has been reactivated under the Army's new program for regular Army enlistments for applicants between the ages of 17 and 33. Lt. W. L. Lindley, of the St. Louis district, is in charge.

This program also carries special opportunities for reenlistments within a limited period after discharge. These opportunities include choice of theaters of operations, retention of rank as held in previous war time, enlistment under temporary status, and the new 20 year retirement policy.

It is necessary for those men interested in reenlisting to take steps as soon as possible in order to gain the opportunities that are set up in the new enlistment circulars.

The Army recruiting office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., and Saturdays from 8:30 a. m. until noon. If you are interested in initial enlistment or reenlistment in the regular Army, call at the local recruiting office in the Post Office building in Sedalia.

lic hearings by the AFL shipping unions.

Democratic Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington, who had served in the house with McKeough and knows him well, argued that to turn down the appointment because McKeough was connected with the CIO would mean that no labor man could be appointed to the commission.

"Any labor man you get will be a member of one of the other labor groups," Magnuson said. "Will this committee tell organized labor its members are not eligible for federal jobs?"

To this, Senator Guy Gordon, Oregon Republican, replied:

"What we have here is, as the late President Cleveland said, a condition and not a theory. Mr. McKeough happens to have been an especially active representative of one of the labor groups. I think labor doesn't generally object to a man in another labor group who was not actively participated in partisan questions."

Magnuson pointed out that McKeough, rather than being a member of CIO, had simply been hired by CIO to do a job in the 1944 election campaign.

At this point, Maine's Brewster came through with the argument

ESME OF PARIS

Grandmama's Snakes

IV
WHILE we were working in the Schumann Circus, our act began to attract the notice of agents and the press. I personally had a nice success, which resulted in Ogrinsky's redoubling his efforts to improve my tumbling. He resorted to his old habit of hitting me on the nape of the neck to increase my speed, and I developed chronic headaches that made me so ill I was hardly able to get through the performance.

It was compulsory for me to have a rest and for grandmama to take care of herself, too, so we met mother in Rapallo, on the Italian Riviera, where we stayed at the quiet, old-fashioned Hotel Nervi overlooking the bay and blue waters of the Mediterranean. Rapallo is a favorite resort for singers who find the air and sunshine excellent for their throats.

We had rooms opening on a private terrace with orange trees all around it, where grandmama could bask in the sunshine with her three pet snakes. They were the oldest and best beloved of her reptiles, and it did not occur to us that there was anything very odd in her having them.

After a six-week stay in Rapallo, we went to London. Mother decided to make a trip to Canada and see my father, partly for business reasons and partly to see my brother an Easter vacation. He had just finished the winter term at Beaumont College, the Catholic equivalent of Eton.

Our party consisted of grandmama with her three snakes in a clothes-basket "borrowed" from the Carlton Hotel in London, mother with a sable coat she had just bought on the installment plan, her bag of jewelry, a Spanish maid constantly seasick, myself, and my brother, very sulky on account of the snakes.

My father met us when the ship docked, and I noticed how his face lit up when he saw mother. We went to the Chateau Frontenac, where he had taken a suite for us.

EVER since we had left London, there had been scenes about the snakes and their feeding equipment, which grandmama had handed over to my brother to take charge of. Now my brother refused to have anything to do with it. He was so rude to grandmama that she appealed to my father to take him to task.

Of course father did not enjoy the addition of the snakes and their livestock to our party and could appreciate my brother's point of view, but he really got angry when Bunnie (as my brother was nicknamed) complained bitterly that grandmama would not wear a hat, smoked cigars, and did not look like anybody else's grandmother, and he would not be seen with her.

Grandmama was deeply hurt about my brother's being ashamed of her, for she was very fond of him and proud of his good looks, but after this little upset she packed her things, said she was going off by herself with her snakes, and would meet us in New York for the return trip to Europe. Mother took Bunnie's part in the whole affair but oddly enough got it into her head that it was all father's fault that grandmama went wandering off alone, and that he had insulted her. She took my brother and went to visit some distant cousins in Montreal, and I was left with my father.

He took me to Toronto, where he had a house near the University, and I was happier than ever before. It was the first time I really got to know my own father. When he left his office in the afternoon, we used to go for long walks, and he would talk to me almost as if I were a grown person, teaching me English words and reading to me every night before I went to sleep. All this was too good to last, and one day he received a frantic telegram from mother announcing that Bunnie had suffered a serious motorcycle accident while out racing with some of the cousins they were visiting. He had a ruptured kidney and she was taking him to New York for medical treatment. We started packing immediately to join her there.

Grandmama turned up in New York in answer to the letters we sent to her agents, and as soon as Bunnie was out of danger, mother announced she was taking him to Europe. I will always remember the day we left and the New York docks in the hot sunshine: my brother could not walk, so was carried to the ship on a stretcher, and father seemed unusually sad. I could not understand why he didn't come with us.

We disembarked in Cherbourg and went on to Paris where my brother was first placed in a sanitarium in St. Cloud. He crawled the sea, so mother decided to take a house somewhere on the coast of France for his convalescence. The place she rented, on the Island of Guernsey, was once Victor Hugo's house where he wrote "Toilers of the Sea."

Mother had taken the house from a phony estate agent she had met, a bogus "count" of some sort, and everything was wrong with it. The lavatories wouldn't work, part of the staircase caved in, the drawing room walls were mildewed. And she kept receiving incredible bills from the "count" for repairs.

Finally father came over from Canada to see what was going on, his arrival coinciding with a notice from a lawyer in Southampton that the house had been bought the previous year from the Hugo estate by the government, to be used as a museum, and they could not understand how the agent managed to rent it to us. In the meantime, the "count" disappeared with three months' advance rent and the check for the plumber.

Low Point Men
Will Replace the High Point Men

By James Lindsley
TOKYO, Oct. 11.—(AP)—American GIs will be returned to the United States from the Pacific at the rate of more than 200,000 a month for the next six months, Allied headquarters announced today.

By the end of March a total of 1,250,000 men will have been returned to the states, leaving approximately 400,000 men in the occupation forces and units manning army installations in the Pacific theater.

In Japan, four divisions (approximately 60,000 men) of combat troops, plus air service troops and special occupation units will remain. The Pacific forces will include 20,000 in Japan and Korea; seven thousand in the Philippines and 36,000 in Okinawa and the rest of the Ryukyus islands. The rest of the 400,000 will be troops and service forces in Hawaii, the Marianas and other Pacific bases.

General MacArthur estimated previously that 200,000 men would be needed for the occupation of Japan six months after surrender; today's announcement cuts that figure by the two divisions (approximately 30,000 men) which will be deployed to Korea from the total of 200,000 for the dual Korea-Japan occupation area.

Low Point Screen
The mass movement from the Pacific will be handled through eight big processing centers at Honolulu, Okinawa, Saipan, Tacloban, Jinsen and Manila. Before any divisions are sent home the low point men will be screened out to remain with the occupation forces replacing high point men from the units in the field, general headquarters said.

As of January 1, the divisions in the Pacific will be located as follows:

On Japan, 11 divisions — The 11th Airborne, First Cavalry, 77th, 81st, 25th, 97th, 32nd, 41st, 24th, 88th and 33rd.

Korea — 7th, 40th and 6th. Philippines — 93rd, 96th, 86th. The divisions which will finally remain as occupation troops are the 11th Airborne, 24th, 25th, and First Cavalry on Japan; the 76th and 6th divisions in Korea and the 86th in the Philippines.

Headquarters said the war department had made a vast amount of shipping available for the mass return of troops.

Looking Backward Forty Years Ago

A heavy frost, the first of the season, visited this section last night, but crops are so well matured that very little damage resulted. Overcoats and wraps were in demand this morning, hence Manager Mowbray turned on the steam heat, in consequence of which Editor Cundiff of the Capital will be in a more pleasant frame of mind tonight than he was last night.

The Moerschel Brewing Co., is arranging for the erection of a two-story brick business house on the east side of Kentucky street, between Main and Second, the plans and specifications for which were drawn by Architect August Helfert. The structure is to be erected this fall.

24th Remembers Pearl Harbor

By NEA Service

The 24th Infantry Division really remembers Pearl Harbor.

It was on Oahu when the Japs threw their sneak punch, but before the Japs threw in the towel, the men of the 24th had hit the enemy 13 times—at Hollandia, Biak, Panson, Leyte, Mindoro, Marinduque, Subic Bay, Rort McKinley, Lubbang, Romblon, Simara, Verde and Corregidor.

The 24th landed in New Guinea early in 1944 for the Tanahmerah-Hollandia operation. In four days the division had wrestled the vital Hollandia airdrome from the enemy. Elements of the 24th then went to Biak and aided the 41st Division in capturing Sorido and Boroke airstrips.

On Leyte the men hit "Red" beach on D-Day, with mountain guns spraying the beach and mortar, machine gun and small arms fire raking the dunes. For 78 straight days, a Pacific record at the time, the men of the 24th were in constant combat and they killed a counted 7,179 Japs.

With little or no rest, elements of the 24th went to Mindoro as part of a task force, while others landed and secured Marinduque. One of its regiments, the 34th was attached to the 38th Division and spearheaded that outfit when it landed above Subic Bay at the top of Bataan Peninsula. One battalion of the 34th was given the honor of making the amphibious assault on Corregidor.

Quiz Program For Assembly

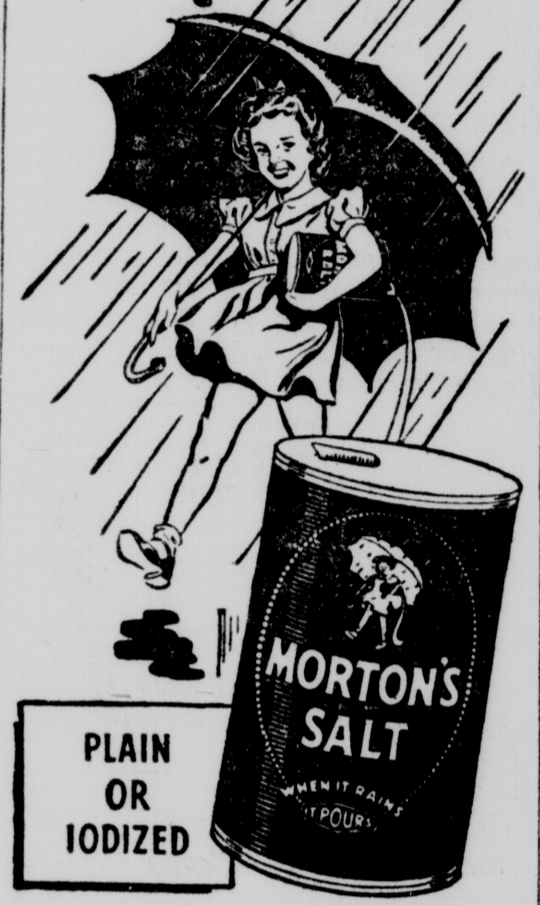

An interesting quiz program was presented at the Smith-Cotton high school senior assembly this morning with Dr. Will E. Wise-em-up (Sam Highleyman) at the "mike" and Gene Terry in charge of commercials.

Student directors scattered throughout the auditorium were ready with wisdom wafers to students who failed in answers to questions given by Dr. Wise-em-up.

The program was opened by Betty Neil Anderson, Student Council president. Miss Catherine Riner was sponsoring faculty member and Bud Roe and Marilyn Morris student sponsors.

Brief Notes on World Series

By Jerry Liska

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—(P)—The saddest man in town today is Manager Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs who was completely crushed by the Detroit Tigers' world series triumph.

When a guy like Jolly Cholly, one of baseball's most beloved personalities, forgets to go to the dressing room to congratulate a winning rival you know he's sick way down.

Grimm wasn't in the gang of back-slappers that rushed into the Tiger's lair after their clinching 9-3 victory yesterday. Charley was covering his sorrow with a grin in his own club-house, trying to cheer up his battered Bruins.

But there was one moment he didn't try to force a smile. That was when his 15-year-old son, Bill, came and silently shook his hand. Not a word was spoken as both strove manfully to hold back tears.

It was bitter gall for this affable manager, who once before had lost to those same Tigers in the 1935 series and whose 1932 Cubs were belted out of the lot by the New York Yankees. He wanted to win this one more than he wanted anything in his life. It would have been a brilliant climax to a thorny managerial career.

For seven years—from 1932 to 1938—Grimm's Cubs never finished in the second division, but he walked the plank in 1938 and tumbled into the American Association as boss of the Milwaukee Brewers. Then, with the 1944 season scarcely underway, the Cubs called him back. Charley forgave and forgot. He had the Bruins on the upgrade last year

Records Made In the 1945 World Series

Paid Attendance was 333,457 Fans Setting New All Time High

By Sid Feder

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—(P)—Baseball's takeoff on the nine old men—eight old men and a boy, in this case—brought the world championship back to Detroit today for the first time in 10 years, all because the Chicago Cubs ran out of gas and pitchers against and this season cajoled, joked and schemed them to the National league pennant.

Then came the creaking, laconic-fielding Tigers and clawed the biggest baseball bubble of his life into a loud, heart-rending pop. "Steve O'Neill knows how I feel," explained Grimm dolefully in his dressing room. "We had a long talk with each other before the game. I'll have a wire waiting for him in Detroit."

The three double A league presidents, Clarence (Pants) Rowland of the Pacific coast, George (Red) Trautman of the American Association, and Frank Shaughnessy of the International, will meet in Louisville Friday for "a general discussion for the good of class AA baseball."

It was estimated that sports writers filed approximately 2,300,000 words from Detroit and Chi-

the Tiger triggermen in the clutch.

That, plus some of the fanciest flinging of this fall frolics by Lefty Hal Newhouse, for a new series strikeout record for seven games, meant the ball game and the set in the finale yesterday. Prince Hal was the boy in the cast—he is 24—and the boy turned out to be quite a man as he racked up his second win of the scramble.

That was the story in yesterday's 9 to 3 payoff. Jolly Cholly Grimm was so desperate for pitchers, after using most of them Sunday and Monday, he finally had to reach into the barrel and come up with Hank Borowy for his third consecutive game.

Good as Hank was in the series—he won twice and lost twice—the Tigers got to him early. They drove him from the hill after nine pitches which three Tigers converted into singles and one run. Five other Cub pitchers followed him to the mound. That's the way those doddering Detroiters were. They ran, mostly as if they were dragging their anchors, but their bats were loaded with high explosives.

The Tigers' hitting power when it was needed, and tight pitching in the pinches, was what made the Cubs lose their seventh series opportunity in 37 years after beating the Tigers in 1907-08.

It wasn't only one of them, although Hank Greenberg was in the forefront. The big guy is a slowed-up 35 now, but he was the glamour boy of the series in anybody's book. He hammered another homer that won a game, another that kept his ball club in it; thumped three doubles in one tilt; scored seven runs and knocked in seven. He wound up with a .304 batting mark, which, with his 1934 and 1940 flailing, made him one of 13 men in all series history to go for 300 or better in three or more series.

Phil Cavarretta, the Cubs first sacker and probably the most underrated man in the set, went Hank one better in this department. He was the No. 1 ball buster and came to the wire with a .423 mark, the second time he's run through a series at a snappy 400 or better. Now he's one of only eight hitters ever to turn the trick twice.

Aside from Greenberg's fireworks, it might be anybody in the Tiger lineup to knock the roof in at any moment. Yesterday, tall Paul Richards, the 37-year-old catcher, pounded out a pair of two-baggers to zip four runs across. The first of these whacks was a base-cleaner for three tallies in the first inning, in which the Tigers, after clubbing Borowy to the showers, continued to have fun against Paul Derringer until they'd chalked up five markers.

As far as the outcome was concerned, the game might just as well have ended there. Newhouse was hot in the clutches. He was never in real trouble and finished up fanning 10 Cubs to run his total for the series up to 22. This was two more than the record for a seven game series shared by George Mullin of the 1909 Tigers, Walter Johnson in '24 and George Earnshaw of the 1931 Athletics. The all-time high is 28 "whiffs" posted by Bill Dineen for the Boston Red Sox in 1903, when the series ran eight games. Those 10 strikeouts the Cubs were hit with yesterday left them with 48 for the series—a new seven game high.

Or besides Richards and Greenberg, it might have been Doc Cramer, the 40-year-old "youngster," who was just about the entire Detroit outfield. He chipped in with three safe blows yesterday to end up with 11 for the series, tying Cavarretta and third baseman Stan Hack of the Cubs, in collecting hits.

In the field it was strictly no contest. The Cub fly chasing trio of Hardy Andy Pafko, who's now ranked as the National league's best center fielder—possibly the best in baseball pending one Joe Dimaggio's return—Peanuts Lowrey and Bill Nicholson made the Bengal gardeners look slow in contrast. Nicholson, in addition, tied the seven-game series record by knocking in eight runs.

The series attracted more attention than in former classics, in spite of cold weather a total of 333,457 fans paid $1,492,434, which, with $100,000 from broadcasting rights, was a new all time high of $1,592,454.

The players for the two series clubs, along with the first division outfits in both leagues, wound up with $475,714.50 as their end of the "take." The winning Tigers each will collect $6,123 and each Cub will get around $4,277, plus the radio cut. Probably all the silliness of the series could be wrapped up in two of the records. The Cubs scored 29 runs. No other club ever counted so many, and still lost. Newhouse was slightly touched for 14 earned runs. No other elbow ever gave up that many and still won. That's the kind of a clambake it was.

Around in The Big Six

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11—(P)—Chauncey Simpson was all "at sea" today and he was unhappy about it.

The Missouri football mentor professes great respect for Admiral Nimitz and looks with envious eyes on 200 young navy ROTC students on the campus but not a single sailor is currently on the Tiger football roster.

Chauncey even goes so far as to say there is no more impressive sight than a battleship riding the waves (unless it's his 300-pound tackle, Jim Kekeris, in action—which is practically the same thing). Still the tars stay away from the Bengal gridiron.

It's all a nautical puzzle to Simpson. "I don't know how to account for it," he moans. "Folk have the idea M. U. is a navy school with big, husky sailors on the squad but the sad truth is we've only had one show up out of 50 who are eligible and he quit practice after a week. Maybe next year when more boys become eligible we will get some good material from the navy." Simpson added hopefully.

Coach Simpson, whose prognostications usually reach the daring extent of a hearty assurance the team will try to make the train on time, went further today and commented that he would sleep better if he really thought his Tigers would beat Iowa State at Ames Saturday.

"The Cyclones undoubtedly are stronger than we are," said the Bengal boss, "but we will try to give 'em a good contest."

Meantime, the Iowa State Cyclones devoted their practice yesterday to defenses they plan to throw against Missouri's passing attack.

At Lincoln, Nebr., Coach George (Potsy) Clark plans to start the youngest pair of guards in University of Nebraska football history against Indiana at Bloomington, Ind. Saturday.

Sixteen-year-old Duane Sack, 170, Plattsmouth, Nebr., is slated to start at one guard with Rex Hoy, 17, filling the other spot. Sack will replace the ill Fred Lorenz, one of the Huskers' few lettermen.

The Oklahoma Sooners worked on defense and devoted some time to their passing game. Oklahoma

The bride was born in Kansas City, coming to Sedalia as a child. She was reared here and was graduated from the Smith-Cotton high school and from the University of Missouri. She took a business course and for the past two and one half years has been employed at the Sedalia Army Air Field.

Harp Soloist In Concert Monday Night

Lois Bannerman, who will appear as harp soloist with the Sedalia Symphony orchestra at its first concert of the 1945-46 season next Monday night at the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium, has been playing the harp since she was seven.

While still in high school she won a scholarship to the Juilliard School of Music where she studied under the great harpist, Carlos Salzedo, who has appeared in concert with the Sedalia symphony. To round out her musical training, Miss Bannerman also studied piano and theory.

She was only 15 when she won the Young Artist's contest, sponsored by the New York Madrigal society, the first harpist ever to win these dual honors. Still in her early twenties Miss Bannerman has been heard in recital throughout the country and stands today on the threshold of a brilliant career, a name in music that promises to grow increasingly great. Press information describes the guest artist as slim, blonde and beautiful.

Lois Bannerman

Miss Bannerman has been praised for her mastery of the harp and the glowing music she produces with remarkable technique and feeling for the tone color possibilities of the harp.

The guest artist will be heard in two solo groups. Abe Rosenthal, conductor of the Sedalia Symphony orchestra, has selected a varied orchestral program of classic and modern favorites including a Schubert overture, an English suite and a concert arrangement of "I'm Gettin' Sentimental Over You." The concluding number will be the great Sibelius tone poem, "Finlandia." The complete program will be announced later.

secretary, Mrs. C. N. Moore; treasurer, Mrs. Karl Wimer; librarian, Mrs. Scott Higgins; parliamentarian, Mrs. Ida King.

The program committee had planned its program as a tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Andrews, who was a loyal garden club member.

Mrs. Paul Teegarden, at the piano, played hymns which were
